Villager Nursery in Truckee

The Great Potato Adventure 2010

~~~~~

Dear Villager,

Everyone should have a chance to grow potatoes. You plunk them in loose soil, compost, pine needles, a bale of straw, pretty much anything that holds a little moisture and is loose. In late summer you root around and pull up these great edible nuggets (after you wash off the dirt and cook them). See the coupon (and detailed instructions, if you want to read a tome on the subject.)

Unearthing Nuggets

~~~~~

The newsletter we sent out yesterday had at least a dozen typo's miss-prints, and errors on my part. Like LIVE television. I am a carbon-based life form and very fallible. I was going to give a free potato to every person who unearthed all 12+ mistakes while mucking about in the newsletter but instead we'll give a potato to everyone with a coupon who asks.

Villager Nursery, Inc
Memorial Day Peony

1, #2 Memorial Day Peony #19.99. Grown from our own seed, Paeonia officinalis is earlier and tougher than even the common lactiflora varieties. Huge magenta blooms and showy seed pods in late summer.

Code - Eric's Peony

Expires - Jun 7, 2010

This is the Google page coupon that I couldn't link to. Nor could I upload an image. Those pictures are from Truckee plants in May (and August, inset).

Oh, one of the typo's: The rain/snow coupon in the newsletter expires in 2010 (not 2009). Bring it with you any time it is raining or snowing before its expiration.
